The meat log mountain (more commonly known as the pleasant tree or Meat Log Mountain) is a tree in Majora's Mask, where the Hero must collect the many logs that fell from it to get to the summit of the mountain and defeat Majora. First encountered after arriving at Clock Town's eastern gate, the tree's name and form depend on the date. The meat log mountain is a tall tree found in the east of Clock Town, below the Great Bay. A two-storied cave with crystal walls lies below the tree and contains a sea of water, which drains the water through a well towards the Great Bay. In the autumn, all the log trees will start to fall, which causes the cave to be flooded. The player has to find a way to drain the water, so he can get to the cave and stop the logs from falling and fill the hole. The first patch of logs is easy to find, but the other log patches are much more challenging.
