February 7, 2012 - The Subsurface Analyst toolbox, available as part of the Arc tools Hydro Groundwater makes it easy to create sections in ArcMap. Subsurface Analyst from ESRI is one of the few tools for analyzing hydrogeological information in ArcGIS. It allows users to view geological structures in sectional view. With Subsurface Analyst, you can perform many calculations related to the analysis and interpretation of hydrogeological information data. You can create different representations of cross sections. One of two functions can be used for this.
